the Aymara, the Uru distinguish siblings terminologically according to age.

Marriage is now solemnized, if at all, with a Catholic ritual led by a priest who yearly visits the village. There is a tradition that formerly couples were married while standing back to back in the water of the lake. Postmarital residence is patrilocal. Although Polo (1901) states that the Uru were formerly endogamous, a shortage of women during recent years has led men to take Aymara wives.

If the Uru ever had a tribal chieftain, he has long since been forgotten. Today, they have the typical altiplano native hilakata, or alcalde, appointed or elected yearly. Squabbles with Aymara neighbors are led by this official.

RELIGION

The Uru worship Pachamama, the earth goddess, and perhaps also a place-deity of the swamp, although they are nominally Catholic and have a small mud church in their village. Like the Aymara, they believe in dream interpretation, in meteorological signs, and in taking omens. Their sacrifices of alcohol, coca leaves, and animals to their deities are very like those of the Aymara. Bertonio (1879 b), however, lists several ancient Uru dances which have disappeared since the 17th century: the buchhu or sica quirkitha, and the chiy-chiy, in which bags are held in the hand.

The main Uru fiesta is at the vernal equinox, but has been changed from the 23d to the 14th of September to coincide with the Christian feast of the Exaltation. On this date, they blow panpipes (siku), sing and dance the mimula, and perform the ancient rite of blood-sacrifice (wilancha) by slaughtering a llama and smearing the blood near the entrance of each hut. Most of the Uru beliefs and ceremonies are clearly from the Aymara.

Most Uru-Chipaya folklore is similarly of the common Aymara stock of animal tricksters.

THE CHIPAYA

The Chipaya of Carangas (Bolivia) are linguistically identical with the Uru of the Rio Desaguadero but differ somewhat from them in culture, though retaining in common certain ancient features. Whereas the Uru are chiefly a fishing and hunting people, the Chipaya are chiefly pastoral and practice a little agriculture.

SUBSISTENCE ACTIVITIES

The Chipaya, like many pastoral peoples, dislike to kill their animals, and they eat llama flesh only when these are ritually slaughtered at public fiestas or important private rites. Curiously, the Chipaya do
